COURSE TITLE: PEASANT MOVEMENTS IN MODERN INDIA
ASSIGNMENTS/SESSIONAL: 20 Marks
SEMESTER EXAMS: 80 Marks
COURSE-OBJECTIVES: This course will introduce students to a number of different ways of thinking about that archetypal figure of “traditional” Indian society, the Peasant. They will be taught about the long-term historical processes that produced the subcontinent as an agrarian society, the impact of colonial rule on the structure of Indian agrarian society. Students will be made to explore the significance of recurrent peasant movements in Indian agrarian society, both at the level of its causes and its effects. They will be trained to examine the symbolic role of the peasantry in the nationalist social and political movements that emerged in the later nineteenth century – the romance of an authentic village India, the alleged ignorance of the peasantry, and the Gandhian vision of Ramrajya. The arguments about the actual place of the peasantry in India’s modern history: first in terms of the competing arguments of “Subaltern Studies” and “Cambridge School” interpretations.
