Prof. K.V. Kale delivered an inaugural speech. He said that extension is equally important to teaching and Research. Extension is essential for all round development. Extension is associated with national development. We can achieve the development through the extension. So extension is the soul of education system. Colleges are playing very vital role while implementing the extension activities. He also proposed the importance of moral and ethics and suggested to follow the moral and ethical values. We must eradicate the tensions of the students by creating the interest and hobbies.

In the end he said that we are part and parcel of the society. Man is a social animal so one must be aware about the social responsibilities.

Prof. Dr. Kishan Dhabe delivered the presidential address. He said that Adult education is neglected by everyone and everywhere. No one pays attention seriously towards the Adult Education. Adult education programme was launched from 1978 and it ceased in 1997. Extension is equally important to teaching and Research. Literacy changes physical and spiritual lives of the people. Our department is working through the non-formal channel.

Chief Guest of the function Prin. Dr. Vasant Sanap delivered the lecture on 'Extension Activates Concept and Solution for Implementation'. He said that extension is basically related to the agriculture and agriculture is our original and basic culture. Extension in agriculture is the base of human life. It had given the stability to the human life. So the concept of the extension is very vast and constructive. He also proposed the importance of college level extension activities and social level extension activities. Society has also the base of extension.

In the end he suggested that university and college level knowledge must be percolated through the extension activities to the bottom level of the society.

This programme was anchored by Dr. Anand Wagh and also proposed the vote of thanks.
