Dear Prof. ARVIND DHABE:

On behalf of the Organizing Committee, I am pleased to inform you that your poster entitled "Novelties of genus Terminalia in India" has been formally accepted at the XIX International Botanical Congress (IBC 2017), which will be held at the Shenzhen Convention and Exhibition Center in Shenzhen, China, on July 23-29, 2017.

International Botanical Congress (IBC) is a traditional and influential convention for plant scientists and practitioners around the world and is notable for bringing together colleagues from many countries and disciplines within the broad research field of plant sciences. IBC 2017 provides a forum on recent developments and future plans for various plant projects and an opportunity for sharing experience and expertise in all fields of plant sciences. The Congress will feature public, plenary and keynote lectures, general symposia as well as posters. More details and instructions for speakers and poster presenters will be announced later.

The IBC 2017 Organizing Committee has established the IBC2017 Awards to assist outstanding scientists and students to participate in the Congress. You may apply for the IBC2017 Awards online if you have financial difficulties to attend the Congress. If you require an additional letter for your visa application, please provide the essential information for visa application using the personal information form provided in your account on the congress website.

If you have any question or need additional information, please feel free to contact Dr. Yiyang Liao at abstract@ibc2017.cn.

We look forward to meeting you in Shenzhen.

With best regards,

Genlin Jiao, Ph.D.
Science Secretary of IBC 2017
